T the late unnatural Re-bellion subsisted, that alone drew the Attention of the whole Body of the People; and when it was happily extinguished, they were naturally desirous to know who were the first Movers, Contrivers, and principal Actors in an Affair, which from the first, might be justly supposd to be at-tended with the most fatal Consequences to all the Ringleaders of it. As the first Scene of it was open'd at so B great great a Distance from the Metropolis of the Kingdom, the People in general could not get at the most perfect Accounts of the Enemys Successes, but as they drew nearer to us, and penetrated to the Metropolis of Scotland, the whole began to be known; we had daily and faithful Accounts of all their Actions, and...
